

For many years, the 71-acre site was farmed by the Wilder family and was home to Wilder's Nursery. The design of the new park reflects the previous agricultural and horticultural uses of the site along with the railroad history of the Town.

Phase one features fields for active recreation, a destination playground, multi-purpose trails, scout camping site and an off-leash dog park, divided into two sections for small and large breeds.

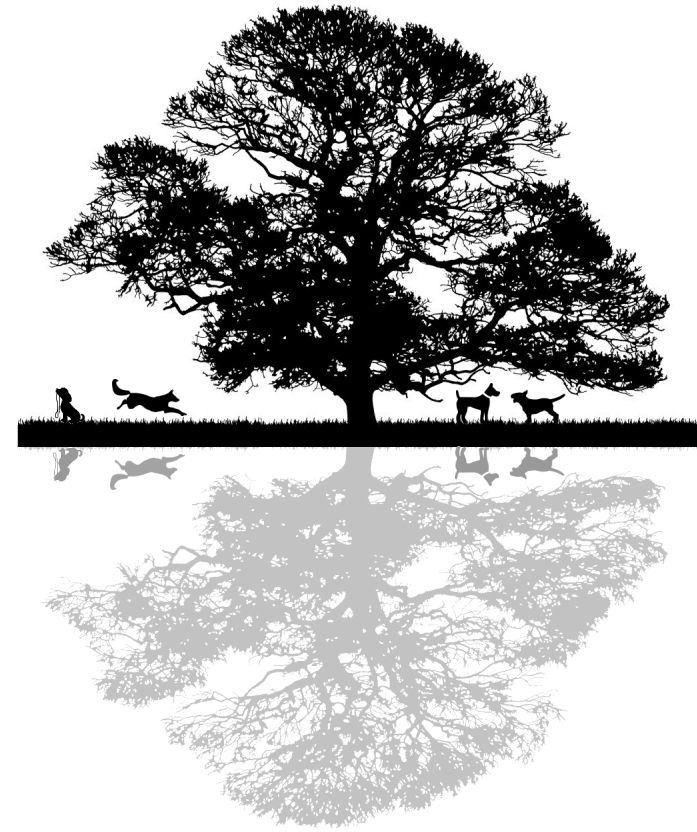

Phase two (Fall 2014) of the park will encompass the 7-acre northwest quadrant of the 71-acre park and enhance the passive recreation experiences of the park. A railroad inspired water tower misting station, two multi-purpose shelters, and a stage on a graded amphitheater provide opportunities for civic events, community functions, arts festivals and special events.
